External Open Source Community Coordination

The External Open Source Community Coordinator is responsible for identifying members of the ONAP community with existing relationships to external open source communities, coordinating with them to expedite interactions between members of the ONAP community and those external communities, and reporting to the TSC on those activities.

Towards that end, the tables below will be used to track engagements with other open source communities and members of the ONAP community with contacts in other open source communities which may be useful to the ONAP community. ONAP community members are encouraged to add themselves and their engagements. Note: Multiple contacts for a given community are both natural and welcome.
